

The Geography Program

The Geography Program offers a wide variety of exciting and relevant courses and two terrific majors. The majors are very flexible and can be tailored to meet your interests. Geography majors are supported by 18 geography courses as well as many from the Geospatial Information Science and Environmental Science programs. You can develop a program that is focused on highly technical subjects in the natural sciences or one that examines the complexities of the human landscape.

ENVIRONMENTAL GEOGRAPHY

Environmental Geographers:

- examine the interactions between people and their environments
- are interested in both how people adapt to specific environments and how they alter their environments through human activities
- examine the physical landscape as well as the implications of human intervention in natural systems

HUMAN GEOGRAPHY

Human Geographers:

- focus on patterns of human activity and the processes that create them
- can select from six regional geography courses that cover complementary realms
- learn to critically examine the world they will experience during their careers

INTERESTING,
ENJOYABLE, RELEVANT!
