

Today in Math History...

-4 September 1893

Quote from Felix Klein. “The proof of the transcendency of pi will hardly diminish the number of circle-squarers, however; for this class of people has always shown an absolute distrust of mathematicians and a contempt for mathematics that cannot be overcome by any amount of demonstration.” Klein in “The Evanston Colloquim. Lectures on Mathematics.”

